Wireframe 2 cont. scroll

The wireframe illustrates a mobile application layout designed for vertical scrolling. It features a rounded rectangular container with a black border. The content is organized into several sections:

- Top Section: A header area containing three horizontal lines, likely representing a logo or navigation bar.
- Los Angeles Section: A section titled "Los Angeles" in a bold, sans-serif font. Below the title are three horizontal lines representing text. A "Learn More" button, enclosed in a rounded rectangle, is positioned at the bottom of this section.
- New York Section: A section titled "New York - COMING SOON" in a bold, sans-serif font. Below the title are three horizontal lines representing text. A "Learn More" button, enclosed in a rounded rectangle, is positioned at the bottom of this section.
- Our Products Section: A section titled "Our Products" in a bold, sans-serif font. Below the title is a large rectangular area with a diagonal cross (X) drawn across it, indicating a placeholder for product images or a future section.

A hand-drawn wireframe of a mobile device screen. The screen is a vertical rectangle with rounded corners. It contains three main sections stacked vertically, separated by thin horizontal lines. The top section is a square placeholder for an image, marked with a large 'X'. The middle section is a rectangular box containing the text 'Coffee Shop Supplies' in a handwritten font, followed by three horizontal lines for a list or details. The bottom section is another rectangular box containing the text 'Customer Feedback' in a handwritten font, followed by four horizontal lines for a list or details.
